Around the Sports World

By Lee W. Kendall

Going into the last week of the first half of the major league baseball before the annual All-star game the Kansas City Royals remain in second place in the AL Central four games behind the Detroit Tigers. In their last ten games the Royals have lost half of those games. Kansas City finishes up their nine game road trip this week in Tampa Bay on Wednesday night before returning home Thursday for a four game home stand against those first place Tigers.

The St. Louis Cardinals have had a little worse week as they have dropped six of their last ten games and have not only falling out of second place in their division but have also lost hold of the Wildcard spot. St. Louis is five games out of first place in the NL Central behind the Milwaukee Brewers. And a half game behind the Pittsburgh Pirates who come into Busch Stadium Monday night for the start of a four game series. The Cardinals will finish out the first half of the season at the division leading Brewers.

The Oakland A's have quietly put up the best record in the majors with a 55-33 overall record. They hold a three and a half game lead over the Brewers and LA Angels.

As of Monday night only eight weeks and a few days till the first regular season NFL game; 58 more days till opening night. Three weeks from this coming Sunday is the first pre-season game. That game will be between the Buffalo Bills and New York Giants it will be held at Canton Ohio as part of the Hall Of Fame weekend.

Jim Smiley of Birney Motor Supply reminds us all of a little known fact: "For the people that believe cars have been around a long time, some scholars believe that Jesus drove a Honda, but didn't like to talk about it. In the gospel of John, Christ tells the people 'For I did not speak of my own Accord'".

If you think some mention about someone in the paper is about you, truth is it probable isn't, but you probably see yourself in it. Suggestion ... don't get upset with the mirror ... fix the reflection.
